

serves as a clarion call for South Africans to protect, promote and support breastfeeding at all levels of society.

is no evidence to suggest that COVID-19 can be transmitted through breastmilk. The benefits of breastfeeding far outweigh the risks and new mothers are encouraged to exclusively breastfeed for the first six months

